

ICE CUTTING IN KOREA

Enterprising Koreans cut ice in big chunks from the Han River at Seoul. Ice will be stored for use this summer.

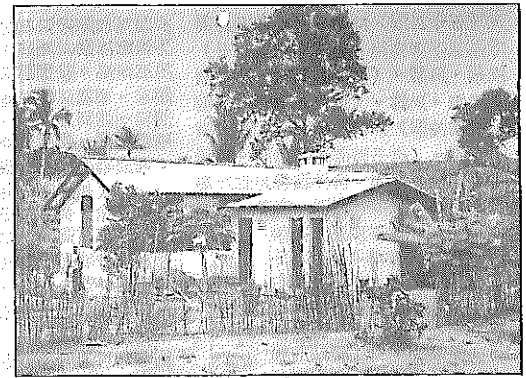

PHILIPPINE soldiers, far from their tropic homeland, keep their spirits high in Korea. In top picture, three infantrymen relax in a snow-filled trench. Below, mail from home is always welcomed with smiles.

JAPANESE school children donate 2,000 books to Red Cross as gift to Korean schools.

SINGAPOR farm settlement for war widows has neat, clean houses like this.

NEW CLOTHING, gift of private U. S. citizens, is distributed to refugees from communists in Korea.

GENERAL AGUINALDO, center, famed Filipino patriot now 83 years old, attends UN Asian trade conference in Manila.